

The New York Times

Dance Listings for Oct. 21-27

OCT. 20, 2016

A selected guide to dance performances in New York City.

Full reviews of recent dance performances: nytimes.com/dance. A searchable guide to these and other performances is at nytimes.com/events.

BALLETCOLLECTIVE (Thursday and next Friday) As a member of the New York City Ballet corps, Troy Schumacher often performs classics. But as a choreographer, both for City Ballet and BalletCollective, his own plucky troupe, he likes to experiment with collaborators. This week, he introduces two new works that take inspiration from music and architecture, pairing the architects Carlos Arnaiz and James Ramsey with the composers Judd Greenstein and Ellis Ludwig-Leone. A handful of Mr. Schumacher's City Ballet colleagues do the dancing (1:15). At 7:30 p.m., Skirball Center for the Performing Arts, 566 La Guardia Place, at Washington Square South, Greenwich Village, 866-811-4111, nyuskirball.org. (Schaefer)